Braille door signs are special signs with dots on them that correspond to Braille letters and numbers. This system is designed for blind and visually impaired people who can read the inscriptions by feeling the dots placed on the surface.

Braille door signs are especially useful in public places such as offices, schools, shops or public institutions, where the blind and visually impaired may need assistance with orientation and navigation. Thanks to such plates, these people can find doors and rooms more easily and read the information on the plates.

Braille signs are made of plastic with stamped steel balls.

They can also be mounted on various surfaces, such as doors, walls, windows or shelves.
