We present to you our plate with inscriptions in Braille. Braille inscriptions are made of steel balls that a blind person can read by touch. They are made according to the standards of the Braille system.

Braille inscriptions are attached to the convex elements of the board, which makes it even easier for a visually impaired person to find information.

Our product has a 5x25 cm plexiglass pocket attached, in which we can insert a note with replaceable information, e.g. the director's name, etc.

The plate is navy blue and made of hard and strong material.

Dimensions 25x35 cm

Minimum purchase: 10 pieces

A sign for the blind is a tool used to enable blind people to read information or give them specific instructions in a public facility.

A sign for the blind may contain information about the name of the facility, room number, floor markings, directions or other important information that a blind person needs to orient themselves in space.

Signs for the blind are often placed at entrance doors, elevators, restrooms, stairs, or other important points in a building. They aim to facilitate communication and ensure accessibility for blind people.
